

I agree with this statement because she has shown great acts of courage speaking in front millions and is a great role model for doing the right thing because her poem shows how she wants to fight for everyone's freedom. - Liam

I fully agree with this statement because well she is an inspiration to me because she knows what's right for equality and she knows and wants other people to know that black or white any gender any age we are all equal. In the text it says ' that even as we hurt, we hoped that even as we tired, we tried.' this shows me that she was so determined to push for her goals and that tells me that if you reach for your goals you can probably achieve them in the future. -

Summer

I fully agree because it could inspire kids to grow up and be just like her talking about her rights. I also love how this poem wasn't just for her town or country but for the whole world, She wants to help rewrite the chapter that the world has been missing for a long time now and I feel like the kids of today would want to do the same and change the world for the better. - Chisom

Today's Guided Reading Responses

Studying 'The Hill We Climb' by Amanda Gorman at Biden's Inauguration

Amanda Gorman is an inspirational young woman and a role model for children to look up to.

How far do you agree with this statement?